Feedback on Automated Follow-ups

Hi Michael,

As discussed yesterday over the call, I wanted to share some feedback on our automated follow-ups via FollowUper.

After the initial email, the next three follow-up emails currently seem quite automated/mechanical and don't give the impression of being written by a person.

The formatting is the first thing that gets attention, followed by the content. I've also attached a screenshot of a manual follow-up email that feels much more human-written — short, natural, and focused on getting the recipient to revisit/read the initial email.

Would appreciate it if you could take a look and share your thoughts on this.

Thanks, as always, for all your support!
